Couldn't Fool Him.

A gentleman called his servant one day and informed him he wished him to learn the names of the first books in the Bible.

"Now," said he, "I will tell you the first one, and during the day I will ask you what it is, to see if you remember; it is Genesis."

Later in the day Bob was called, but he could not remember what it was.

"Now," said his master, "I have a way to impress it on your mind so so you cannot forget it. Now, Bob, we have an old horse in the stable.

What do we call it?"

"Jenny."

"Correct. And we have a little girl in the kitchen, what do you call her?"

"Sis."

"Very well; now put the two together and you have Jenny-Sis-Genesis. I think you can remember it until to-morrow."

"Yah! yah! Yes, sah."

The next morning Bob was summoned to appear before his master.

"Good-morning, Bob; can you give me the name of the first book in the Bible this morning?"

"Yes, sah, sure."

"Well, what is it?"

"Yah! yah! Can't fool dis chicken dis morning on dat—it is de old boss, sah!"

The ways of the swindler are as numerous as leaves in the forest.
Here are two very neat dodges: A young doctor, who found himself in a Dakota village without a dollar to pay a heavy board bill, concocted a plan by which a wandering tramp played the part of a small-pox patient, and the doctor vaccinated the entire population of the town with some innocuous acid at $2 each. The swindle was discovered too late, for the enterprising physician and his bogus patient skipped out with $300 each.
A Western circus manager arranged to have a wax baby dropped from a second-story window in every town which his show visited, just in time to be caught by one of his athletes.
The performance was successful several times, and crowds went to see the hero of the rescue, until the newspapers exposed the trick.

"Never take a leap in the dark," said an old adage. Many a man, if he takes it at all, is obliged to take his sleep in the dark.

It may be all right for lovers, but "two souls with but a single thought" could never conduct the editorial department of a newspaper.

All the legends connected with southern bloodhounds have to give way when a tramp throws the animals over a fence as fast as they come up to him.

When a couple are newly married, they feel as if they could devour each other. After a lapse of a year or so their regret is that they did not follow their first inclination.

How to keep bees—keep the rudder end away from you.
